

Spring 2012

The Role of the Director

Governance, Ambassador and Business Development encompass some of the various roles for which a director and or trustee of a profit or not-for-profit company is held accountable. If a board of directors is to function well as a whole, it must develop, like any other working group, a high-level relationship with both the senior management team and the individual directors.

To be effective, directors must have access to meaningful financial information of the company in order to compare actual results to budget, peer groups and prior year's performance. Management has to inform directors on financial and non-financial issues. They are the tools needed to help manage risk and insure that proper policies, procedures and controls are in place. This valuable information is necessary to assess and minimize the organization's exposure to risk and to prevent mediocre to poor financial performance, regardless of any economic environment. Information that the board reviews must be in an understandable format; it is essential that board members comprehend the organization's information if they are to use it to support and assist management in achieving a higher level of performance.

Well disseminated and understood information can lead to interesting dialogue within the board meetings which often solicits challenging questions that provide a platform for directors to present dissenting views. This encourages the obvious and valuable question: "WHY?" Directors should be encouraged to debate issues with senior management, the entire board or with various subcommittees. Effective communications with management can create a solid foundation wherein strategic initiatives can evolve to ensure that the mission, goals and, ultimately, a high standard of performance can be realized. The beneficiary will be the shareholders.

Directors as Ambassadors and Business Developers...means reaching out to potential new customers through a network of professional peers and sharing with them the success of the organization. We all know that "success breeds success." Relationships can develop and quality growth follows, allowing the company the opportunity to attain the next level in its business life cycle. Commitment and support between directors and management is always a win-win situation.

Eagle Bancorp, Inc. Announces Record Earnings with First Quarter 2012 Net Income Up 49%

(Excerpts from the April 23, 2012 Press Release)

BETHESDA, MD. Eagle Bancorp, Inc. (the "Company") (NASDAQ:EGBN), the parent company of EagleBank, today announced record quarterly net income of $7.6 million for the quarter ended March 31, 2012, a 49% increase over the $5.1 million net income for the quarter ended March 31, 2011. Net income available to common shareholders increased 56% to $7.5 million ($0.37 per basic share and $0.36 per diluted common share), as compared to $4.8 million ($0.24 per basic and diluted common share) for the same three month period in 2011.

"We are very pleased to report continuing trends of strong earnings and loan growth in the quarter ended March 31, 2012. These results reflect substantial growth in both net interest income and noninterest income, which together comprise total revenue, while maintaining low levels of problem loans and credit losses," noted Ronald D. Paul, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Eagle Bancorp, Inc. "Our first quarter"

2012 revenue increased 41% over the same quarter in 2011 and was 7% better than the fourth guarter of 2011. The Company has now reported thirteen consecutive quarters of record net income. Higher noninterest income from the origination and sale of residential mortgage loans in the first guarter of 2012 contributed substantially to increased revenue. As compared to the fourth quarter of 2011, loans increased by 6% and deposits decreased by 1%. The net interest margin for the most recent quarter was 4.11%. While lower than the same quarter in 2011 of 4.23%, the margin remains favorable as compared to peer banking companies. Net credit losses for the quarter were 0.34% of average loans, and problem loans remain at very reasonable levels. The Company's expense management, as measured by the efficiency ratio, was a very respectable 53.83% in the first guarter of 2012, as compared to 58.57% in the same quarter of 2011," added Mr. Paul. "We believe our first quarter financial results continue to demonstrate a consistent and balanced approach to the Company's performance, although we do not manage the Company from quarter to quarter", noted Mr. Paul. "In addition, we are pleased that our number of customer relationships continues to increase as more and more businesses view EagleBank's capabilities and capacity to lend as highly attractive," noted Mr. Paul.

Working with You to Keep Your Information Safe

It is our job, as your bank, to ensure security and confidentiality of your banking experience. We take protecting you against any type of identity or unauthorized access very seriously, and employ these and other online banking precautions. We use customer access controls (passwords and security questions), internal bank access controls for internal computer facilities; data encryption for stored customer information; modification procedures consistent with an approved security program; dual control procedures and employee background checks; constant monitoring with set procedures to detect customer information exposure...and we follow set actions that must be taken if any unauthorized access is even slightly suspected.

But, we still need your help to complete the security loop. Hackers who electronically break into an individual's computer head straight for your bank information, which can lead to us. Block access by using strong passwords with a mix of numbers and letters that don't include easily guessed names, dates or addresses. Monitor your accounts often; sign on and off securely; make sure your anti-virus software is current and that it scans your email; never send sensitive numbers or information in an email; never give out bank information—your bank already has it. Be suspicious of everyone; call us immediately if you suspect someone is acting on our behalf to get information from you. Protect your personal information at all times and you'll be helping us protect you!

For me, personally, I have served on over 30 boards of directors, including five public companies, several smaller non-public companies and numerous not-forprofit organizations. Although it has become more complicated to serve, due to numerous regulatory issues and accounting changes, I still consider it exhilarating when the board of directors, management and the various constituencies join together, sharing their expertise and uniting their collective, creative thoughts...for a result that is rewarding, satisfying and mutually beneficial to all.

Sincerely,

Robert PP_

Robert P. Pincus Vice Chairman of Eagle Bancorp, Inc. Vice Chairman of EagleBank

Note: Mr. Pincus is a 2012 recipient of an "Outstanding Director" Award from The Washington Business Journal.

EagleBank has established a very unique scholarship fund in conjunction with the Montgomery College Foundation and The Universities at Shady Grove (USG). A qualifying honors student must progress from Montgomery College's Gordon and Marilyn Macklin Business Institute (MBI) to the Smith School of Business at the Universities at Shady Grove, maintaining honors status throughout. EagleBank's gift is part of the MBI Foundation's $750,000 challenge grant supporting the MBI program. The student's potential scholarship award will total $15,000 over three years. EagleBank's President of Community Banking Tom Murphy, active member of USG's Board. worked with both organizations to develop the scholarship (a $30,000 gift over a six-year period). "It is a great way for EagleBank to give back to the community, help two great local institutions and provide funds for a deserving business student in need of financial assistance," commented Tom.

Every year, Small Businesses in America employ more than half the country's private workforce, create three out of every four jobs, drive American innovation, and increase U.S. competitiveness. The Small Businesses of Washington, DC are no exception. They have led our local economic recovery and are propelling our city's growth. It is, therefore, most fitting that the DC Chamber, in partnership with EagleBank, celebrates these businesses. Over 400 business owners and executives attend this major event...one of the Chamber's largest fundraising efforts-its success is essential to keeping the Chamber strong for our business community.
